THE DONG-A ILBO
EGYPTIAN LIBERTY AGAIN
THREATENED
The British Note to Egypt accused that the murder of the Sirdar was the natural outcome of the campaigns of hostility against British rights and British subjects in Egypt and that the Egyptian Government was cognizant of what had been going in the Sudan. The Note also re-affirmed the absolute right of the British Government to protect foreign interest in Egypt and called upon the Egyptian Government to cease all opposition in that regard. It further demanded the payment of an indemnity of 500,000 pounds, the prohibition of political demonstrations, and the withdrawal of the Egyptian troops from the Sudan. It is interesting to note that even an English paper, the Daily Herald, compares the British Note with the ultimatum sent to Serbia by Austria following the Sarajevo assassination in 1914. The Egyptian Government, however, acquiesced in regard to the payment of indemnity and the prevention of any anti-British demonstrations, but was unwilling to withdraw the Egyptian troops from the Sudan, for it would be contrary to the Egyptian constitution, should it be carried out. But the latter was also done, the Zagul cabinet having been made to resign under the pressure of the British fleet. The Egyptian liberty is being threatened once more, and Egypt has right reasons for her discontent.
While we question the sincerity of Great Britain in dealing with the weaker nations, we also condemn the powers that they, under the name of so-called "trusteeship," use all sorts of high-handed methods over the weak to gratify their commercial and imperialistic interests. Certain powers are emphasizing the importance of expanding their naval programs and some others are making efforts to establish universal military training, arguing that the preparedness will stop war. Their argument is very illogical, while they have some other concealed motives. Some statesmen of the world advocate disarmament as a means of preventing war. But disarmament can never bring peace into the world so long as the weaker races are subjected to an and exploited by the stronger. History tells us that the discontent, economic wants, the love of freedom always have been the chief causes of war. Therefore, the weak nations and the backward people must be given the equal opportunity for progress and the liberty to work out their own destinies; they must be helped and not be dominated; and then, only then, the world will witness a new age of peace and good will among nations.
